More about Inside Out

Whether it is through building relationships with trusted adults, accessing personalized mentoring and counseling, or by developing essential life skills through (at the moment) virtual programming, our youth are more engaged at home, school, and work as a result of these critical life skills.

Our Upstream Prevention Impact

IOYS is working with businesses, community leaders, law enforcement, medical providers, and schools across El Paso and Teller Counties to empower young people to identify the challenges they may face every day including violence, suicide, substance use and isolation. We work to create safer spaces together. More about our other programs:

of the youth we serve are currently experiencing homelessness.

Your financial contributions provide warm clothing, blankets, hand warmers, and hot meals to keep our young people safe.

100%

of youth surveyed said after attending an IOYS program they can identify where to get help if they or someone they know is struggling with substance use.

These young people know substance use is risky and they are less likely to use after participating in our program.

community members trained by IOYS on how to provide safe space and talk to young people about topics like sexuality, marijuana, and depression.

One trusted adult in a young person's life can reduce their risk of suicide by 40%

Thank you not just for giving me the courage to be myself without shame and embarrassment...you have helped me believe that I deserve to live. I only hope that you continue to help people for a thousand years more...I can never explain how grateful am to you.

-Charlie (they/them), age 16
